First Nations people are the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

About this book

This book is from the Victorian Disability Worker Commission.

We call ourselves the Commission.

This book says what happens when you make a complaint about the Commission.

A complaint is when you are not happy about

- something we did

- a decision we made

- our services.

You tell us why you are not happy.

We want to fix problems so we have better services.

Accessibility and inclusion

We will make our complaints process accessible and inclusive.

Accessible means everyone can use it.

Inclusive means everyone can join in.

We will treat everyone who makes a complaint with respect.

Respect means we understand that

- everyone is important

- we should be polite to everyone.

We can help if you need support to make a complaint.

For example, if you need help to communicate.

Who can make a complaint?

Anyone can make a complaint.

You can ask someone you know to make a complaint for you.

For example, a family member.

Who you can make a complaint about

You can make a complaint about

- the Commission
- the people who work for the Commission
- the Disability Worker Registration Board of Victoria.

How to make a complaint

How we use information

We might need to get personal information from you.

For example, we may get health information.

We only get personal information that helps us understand your complaint.

You can find our privacy policy on our website.

Our privacy policy says how we use personal information.

Website

www.vdwc.vic.gov.au/privacy

You can complain about how we use your personal information.

We keep a list of complaints

We keep information about the complaints we get.

For example, we keep information about

- how many complaints we get
- what people complain about
- how we fix problems.

We give the community this information in our annual report.

Our annual report says what we did during the year.

We do not give the names of anyone who makes a complaint.
